Name: SCHMAHL SCIENCE WORKSHOP

Form 990 (2017)

Form 990, Part III, Line 4a:

Outreach Schmahl Science Workshops serves pre-kindergarten through high school students with over 550 hands-on workshops throughout Silicon Valley. Each workshop integrates the concepts and skills measured in California's STAR English-Language Arts, Integrated Mathematics, and Science standards, providing teachers with the opportunity to simultaneously cover multiple subjects and thereby conserve valuable time. Middle and high school workshops support science teachers by bringing in workshops at key times during each unit of science instruction and providing students with hands-on activities and experiments that are not commonly available.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4b:

Individual Research Program (IRP - Formerly ASRP) This is a seventeen-year-old innovative program that prepares sixth through twelfth grade students to consider science as a viable career option and to major in science in college. IRP provides an opportunity for bright young students to develop a passion for science by conducting authentic research and producing quality projects. In 15 years, hundreds of students have received awards for research projects. Currently, eight IRP students are working with volunteer patent attorneys to patent their discoveries. One young IRP scientist was recently published in the Nature journal.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4c:

SEMINAR PROGRAM (Formerly FSRP)The Seminar Program is an expansion of our Fundamental Science Research Program. Both the nature and the process of science are taught in our Seminars. These are two different aspects of science. The nature of science deals with issues in the philosophy, sociology, and history of science. It includes concerns, such as the nature or attributes of scientific knowledge itself -- e.g., that scientific knowledge is durable, but is always inherently subject to change. The process of science addresses what scientists do in order to develop that knowledge. The objective of the Seminar Research Program is to provide students with practical application of science and engineering concepts to equip students with fundamental knowledge that students need to succeed.
