Return Reference	Explanation
Part I, Line 1a	First-class travel. At times, business class travel is used for long-haul international trips for designated employees (with CEO approval). This allows employees to "hit the ground running" to accomplish more in less time - maximizing the employee's effectiveness while minimizing the time needed to be spent in the foreign country. Multiple destinations can also be visited by the individual on the same trip in less time when compared to the multiple trips and extra days on location required by economy class travel. This is not treated as taxable income. Travel for Spouse Volunteers. Corporate Chief Executive Officer, Arnold Cole's spouse volunteer travels with him on occasion in order to assist with business related tasks of the organization. These tasks include, but are not limited to: public relations activities for BTTB, customer service at book or information displays, advocacy for BTTB's program activities in fundraising meetings, other communication and/or prayer support with donors and listeners, and administrative support. If the spouse volunteer travel is deemed business related by leadership, it is not treated as taxable income.
Part I, Line 1b	We have a written policy for spouse volunteer travel. We don't currently have a written policy regarding first class travel. Our practice is that it must be approved by the CEO or President.
