State of Washington at the local, state and national level; to promote the orderly development and economic advancement of Washington retailing and the state as a whole; to stimulate and enhance competitive enterprise with community responsibility; to provide programs of service and action in promoting the common interests of members; and to secure cooperation with and among other organizations in the furtherance of those objectives.

unemployment rates.

Regardless, WRA's mission is more important today than it ever has been since its establishment in 1987. Despite retail's growth, computer technology is churning the workforce, changing industry jobs while creating new career paths. As some online sellers continue to prosper, traditional brick-and-mortar retailers are streamlining and becoming omni-channel. The threats to the industry are broader than just technological.

Governments are increasingly leaning on the industry with burdensome regulations and labor benefits that threaten the livelihoods of entire businesses. Retailers, from national chains to sole proprietorships and everyone in between, need a focused and compelling voice to engage in the public debate of how best to regulate the industry and grow the economies it supports.

This is the essence of WRA's role as Washington's exclusive advocacy group for retailers. At the same time, WRA offers an array of cost-saving services to add value to members. We plan to remain a pivotal player in working to anticipate and shape retail's evolution through the remainder of the decade and beyond.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4b, Program Service Accomplishments:
combining resources and ideas knowing that a strong association could achieve goals no single business could accomplish individually.

WRA is the only organization that looks at every legislative bill and state agency regulation proposed, year-round from an exclusively retail perspective.

Today the Association is recognized by merchants, legislators, state officials and other trade groups as a powerful and effective spokesperson for the retail industry.

Retail Association Services offers one of the few ways in Washington State that employers can recoup some of the dollars paid in workers compensation premiums.
