Form 990 (2018)

Form 990, Part III, Line 4a:

EDUCATION Into Your Hands Africa supports formal and informal educational opportunities by partnering with secondary schools and vocational colleges in order to achieve key goals in matriculation, retention, graduation rates, academic performance and school income. The organization supports students of all grade levels with an emphasis on female education. Successful students who complete senior four may apply for an additional scholarship to continue his or her studies at the vocational level. The opportunity to attend vocational school is provided to less than 5% of the Ugandan student population. At the secondary level, the Life Skills Program features an educational scholarship, personal and professional development training courses, expansion of vocational and technical training, site visits to demonstration farms and colleges, and a livestock project. The program supports students as they begin their own businesses, support their families, and stimulate local business with an end goal of allowing students to self-fund their tuition beyond high school. In 2018, 105 students at St James Secondary School participated in the Life Skills Scholarship Program. Beyond secondary school, Into Your Hands Africa supports the best and most academically minded students through scholarship support at a local vocational college. The vocational training program aims at boosting vocational education as a means of overcoming high unemployment rates by providing opportunities for hands on, skilled education that allows youth to compete in the job market or become job creators themselves. The program encourages students to return to the village and serve their communities once they graduate. To date, Into Your Hands Africa has partnered with five vocational colleges to support student attainment and success in farming, early and elementary education, nursing, hairdressing, electrical technician, and veterinary services. Based on a 100% graduation rate from the first cohort of students until today, Into Your Hands-Africa anticipates further expansion of the vocational training program in the near future. In 2018, 35 students were supported.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4b:

ENTREPRENEURSHIP The second programming block of Into Your Hands-Africa is its entrepreneurship training programs. New businesses create income generation and self-sufficiency through smallholder enterprise projects where participants learn valuable business skills and generate revenue to cover their financial needs. The organization supports families, students, and community members through projects in farming or animal husbandry. Participants of this program receive business and animal husbandry training courses, veterinary services or agricultural advisement, and an enterprise project in the form of piglets/chickens or coffee/mango seedlings. The impact of this project is immediate and sustainable for the family while also supporting future generations of families by increasing their financial sustainability and food security. To date, projects have included Send-a-Piglet-Home, Send-a-Chicken-Home, Send-a-Goat-Home, boar centers, Clonal coffee and mango projects. Individual projects provide sustainability for future project beneficiaries through a pass-on system where portions of the earnings from the original project are given as a reimbursement to the organization in support of a future entrepreneur. Income generated through this project allows the student or family to expand their business while also supporting day-to-day needs including adequate healthcare, school fees, clean water and other relevant costs. Beneficiaries are supported through initial training workshops, mentorship opportunities, veterinary services, and top-off trainings that include practical hands on support. Beneficiaries are responsible for providing an acceptable shelter for an animal or clearing the land and digging holes for agricultural-based projects. In 2018, Into Your Hands-Africa distributed 175 new enterprise projects to students and families.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4c:

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT Enterprise activities must occur within a supportive social context, as such, the third programing block of Into Your Hands-Africa is the Community Development Association (CDA) program. Self-sustainability, empowerment, and community leadership are the organizations top priorities. With this in mind, Into Your Hands-Africa encourages the community members to establish their own community development cooperatives in partnership with local stakeholders and community leaders. The CDA program supports a shift from subsistence farming to commercial agriculture and animal husbandry by featuring three key elements: (1) educational workshops and vocational training, (2) home visits where participants observe other successful enterprise development activities, and (3) and mentorship where participants have the opportunity to apply what they have learned in workshops and home visits. The CDA program has contributed to the economic health and vitality of the community while supporting food security and expanding local organic farming practices that occur in a supportive context. Over the past year, Into Your Hands-Africa has supported more than 340 community members participating in the Community Development Association program across 70 villages in Ndagwe and Kisekka sub counties. In 2018, Into Your Hands Africa expanded its Women's Enterprise Training Program to support over 150 beneficiaries. The Womens Enterprise Training Program focuses on marginalized poverty level females with little to no formal education. This project increases access to opportunities for young women, which in turn increases the pipeline of educated girls/women who grow into actualized women and become leaders in their communities. This Womens Enterprise Training Program supports entrepreneurial and vocational training for Ugandan females so that they learn and cultivate the skills needed to become self-sustaining, employed and self-sufficient citizens. IYHA's distinctive approach combines classroom education, business exposure and workable skill building, vocational training, and group support from successful female entrepreneurs. These elements along with ongoing support from IYHA on-the-ground staff work in tandem to support success and improve the local community economy. The unique curriculum was developed by program partners and incorporates the feedback and visioning of the women while allowing all women to participate, regardless of their past educational attainment. Through the Womens Enterprise Training Program, women are empowered to create their own business, become financially self-sufficient, and to break social and economic barriers for the next generation of girls.
