The General Atomics Sciences Education Foundation provided financial support to many science and engineering non-profit education institutions in 2018 including the Innovations for Learning, Inc. to support the TutorMate literacy program in Santa Ana California first grade classrooms where 25 General Atomics employees provided on-line tutoring of students in reading and science, the San Diego Children's Discovery Museum to provide scholarships to low income students to attend STEM workshops, the North County Education Foundation to support their 2018 Super STEM Saturday family science event, Expanding Your Horizons of San Diego to support their 2018 STEM conference, the Secondary Science Olympiad of San Diego County to support the 2018 San Diego Science Olympiad, the Elementary Institute of Science to support their Girls Take Flight program, the Birch Aquarium at UCSD to support their Ocean Science Education Fund, the EnCorps STEM Teachers program to support a STEM teaching fellowship program in San Diego, the Greater San Diego Science and Engineering Fair to support the fair's 2018 operations, the MIT Beaver Works Summer Institute to support STEM programs for exceptional high school students at MIT, the San Diego Natural History Museum to support their Museum Access Fund, the Boys and Girls Clubs of Greater San Diego to support their Stepping Stones to STEM Success program, the New Children's Museum of San Diego to support their Innovator's Lab makerspace studio, the MCRD Marine Corps Museum Foundation to support a new exhibit to highlight STEM related career fields, Big Brothers Big Sisters of San Diego County to support their Beyond School Walls - STEM initiative, Science Delivered to support their It's Elementary K-5 program for low income students, the American Physical Society to provide support for dissemination of Physics Quest kits for San Diego area middle school classrooms, and FIRST Robotics of San Diego to support the March 2019 San Diego regional competition, and the Society of Hispanic Professional Engineers to support their 2018 EMPOWER high school conference at UCSD. These activities involved thousands of elementary, middle, and high school students.

The Foundation, via its General Atomics Scientists/Engineers Supporting Science/Engineering for Students (GASSSS) program, supported over 160 engineers and scientists to perform science and engineering activities in classrooms or at after school activities or at General Atomics facilities and to reimburse them for science and engineering materials that they purchased and provided to those schools or activities. These activities ranged from giving science and engineering demonstrations to students, assisting teachers with science and engineering lessons, mentoring high school robotics clubs, or providing support to regional science and engineering competitions such as science fairs and science olympiads. On average, each of these activities involved about 50 students, so approximately 8000 students were involved in these science and engineering enrichment activities. All engineering presentations and curricula that were developed by these scientists and engineers were posted on the Foundation web site for others to use. In addition, all of these activities were documented and posted on the Foundation web site so that other scientists and engineers had points of contact and examples of potential activities.

The Foundation also judged and provided awards at the 2018 Greater San Diego Science and Engineering Fair.

During 2018, the Foundation web site (www.sci-ed-ga.org) had 14,000 users who had 15,000 sessions and 22,000 page views so that the impact of Foundation educational materials, which include educational modules, educational presentations, and science posters, extended to a world-wide audience.
