29 Indigenous SeedKeepers Network - The mission of the Indigenous Seed Keepers Network is to nourish and assist the growing Seed Sovereignty Movement across North America. As a national network, we leverage resources and cultivate solidarity and communication within the matrix of regional grass-roots tribal seed sovereignty projects. We accomplish this mission by providing educational resources, mentorship training, outreach and advocacy support on seed policy issues, and organizing national and regional events and convenings to connect many communities who are engaging in this vital work. We support the creation of solutions-oriented programs for adaptive, resilient seed systems within tribal communities to enhance the creative capacity to continue to evolve as the face of our Mother Earth changes. ISKN is a shade tree of support to the essential work of regional and tribal seed initiatives, as we offer a diverse array of resources aimed at nourishing and supporting a vibrant indigenous seed movement, as a complement to the growing Food Sovereignty movement within Indian country. Through our mentorship and leadership trainings, we aim to see the number of confident seed stewards within tribal communities growing exponentially. ISKN is working to assist communities who are working towards Rematriation of their precious seed relatives. Working cross-culturally with many stakeholders, including native farmers and gardeners and representatives from tribal communities, institutions, and organizations who have such seed collections, and also other people who can help facilitate and lay out the needed framework to assist in these seeds finding their way home. We are working towards establishing the protocols and guidelines in this complex and healing work of seed reconciliation. In 2018 ISKN presented at and/or coordinated 10 activities directly reaching 1900 participants, supported by 90 volunteers. In addition, ISKN held monthly calls for SeedKeepers with over 60 stakeholders from a diversity of native communities and Tribes to continue to cultivate regional and intertribal connections to help support their tribal communities seed initiatives.
