for 26 years. The organization was instrumental in the adoption of legislation that not only created the West Virginia Affordable Housing Trust Fund, but also legislation that provided a dedicated source of revenue to resource the Trust Fund. CWWV also coordinates the West Virginia Housing Policy Group that conducted the necessary research and analysis to develop a comprehensive West Virginia Housing Policy Framework in September 2013. The purpose of the Housing Policy Framework is to establish broad goals and direction related to the state's housing policy, and to assist in coordination between state agencies, between state and local government, and between the private and public sector. The Housing Policy Framework helps ensure that policy responses to West Virginia's housing issues are not piecemeal, but instead link together to form a cohesive and comprehensive strategy.

Nonprofit Capacity Building Initiative

West Virginia nonprofits in the housing field continue to "leave money on the table" because they do not have the capacity to apply for and manage funds; develop and complete projects; navigate the complex and ever-changing housing rules and regulations; and develop organizational sustainability strategies. Because housing affordability and housing quality are significant challenges for nearly one- fifth of West Virginia households, strong and viable housing organizations are needed to meet the unique challenges of the State.

This issue has been identified and examined by the West Virginia Housing Policy Work Group (a group of experienced colleagues representing federal, state, and local stakeholders within the housing industry). While developing the West Virginia Housing Policy Framework, the group researched and analyzed issues unique to the State, informed by a survey of 206 individuals in the housing field. Nearly all of the housing stakeholders who completed the survey identified the need for technical assistance. The factors most frequently selected as inhibiting housing development were related to a lack of planning at the local level and a lack of recognition of the importance of housing as a component of economic and community development. A series of recommendations were made, including expanding funding sources for the preservation and rehabilitation of existing housing stock; increasing access to capital and technical assistance to nonprofit housing organizations; and establishing a technical assistance program to provide consulting services in the areas of compliance, community development and financing, contract management, and marketing plan development. To address these recommendations, CWWV developed the Nonprofit Capacity Building Initiative (NCBI) so that member organizations will have the skills and expertise to successfully develop housing opportunities and support community development efforts throughout West Virginia. The goal of the NCBI is to build the capacity of State housing organizations for full utilization all of the state and federal funding for affordable housing.

Senior Living Community Models Initiative

The Senior Living Project is a collaboration among groups and individuals working toward better and more affordable housing in West Virginia and toward better living for the state's growing elder population. The project is led by CommunityWorks in West Virginia and the West Virginia Partnership for Elder Living, Inc. CWWV and WVPEL partnered with three communities Hinton, WV; Elkins, WV; and Buchanan, WV to provide technical and monetary assistance to become model senior living communities. A group of experts in affordable housing, housing development, finance, health and human services, community development have prepared this project. This core group, along with others, will be working with our three communities for the next few years to make visions become realities.

Aligning Housing, Agriculture and Economic Development

Community Works in West Virginia and the West Virginia National Guard recently initiated a teaming partnership that will benefit the people in several areas of West Virginia who are being impacted by a shortage of high quality employment opportunities as well as family and individual housing. The immediate need is to conduct planning and coordination actions that will ultimately enable the partnership to incorporate housing opportunities, improvements and flood recovery initiatives into the economic development support activities associated with the West Virginia National Guard and Community Works in West Virginia. The focus of this collaboration is on leveraging activities associated with the agriculturally oriented project and economic development with private businesses. In addition to the economic misfortunes associated with downturns in the coal industry these counties have several communities that were devastated by the recent West Virginia floods. The result is that they are also suffering from damage and destruction to local housing. In order to recover economically these communities will require economic and employment opportunities combined with assistance to increase the availability of high quality local housing.

West Virginia Housing Conference 2017

CWWV the lead sponsor in partnership with the WV Community Action Partnership; the WV Habitat for Humanity; the West Virginia Housing Development Fund and the WV Partnership for Elder Living, hosted The West Virginia Housing Conference. The conference attracts more than 350 housing advocates, lenders, developers, administrators and policy makers from the non-profit, public, and private sectors last year.
