Form 990 (2018)

Form 990, Part III, Line 4a:

1 Bringing industry programming courses to college campuses - We augment college CS curriculum in Haiti and the United States with free, in-person, on-campus, computer programming courses. This involves developing industry-relevant curriculum, instructor training, and course operations (grading, technical support). In 2018, we ran 41 cybersecurity and iOS courses at 25 campuses in the US and in Haiti. 50% courses were offered for academic credit and we trained over 100 students and professors to teach our courses at their colleges. Over 1,300 students enrolled in our programs (a 160% increase from the previous year), 40% of students are women or underrepresented minorities, 40%+ are first-generation college students and 75% of students report they are more/extremely likely to pursue CS after completing our courses. In 2019, we will experiment with a blended model of learning both remote online and live in-person as well as expand the number of campuses partners.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4b:

2 Improving Computer Science Fundamentals for college students - This is a three part series that builds a fundamental approach to designing, implementing, and analyzing complex algorithms. The course also incorporates key skills including technical communication and collaboration while problem solving. The course is designed to provide students with the techniques and confidence required to solve especially challenging technical problems. The course series is designed for freshmen through seniors, although students test into the appropriate level. 92 students from over 50 universities enrolled in our pilot launch of our most advanced course this summer run in a live remote instruction format with a professional engineer. Underrepresented minorities report a 65% increase in confidence to apply for software engineering jobs at top technology companies after completing our course. 70% of those alumni already report receiving internship and jobs in software engineering roles. 30% of students who didn't have prior software development internships were able to get their first internship/full-time technical job offer. In 2019 we plan to develop and pilot the entire course series with larger enrollment and expect to see higher proportions of our students getting internships/jobs in technology.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4c:

3 Alternative Introductory Programming Courses - These workshop series are part of our Inspire Track designed for freshmen and sophomores majoring in Computer Science or related STEM majors. They give students a hands-on and engaging introduction to the field of Computer Science. This course is an entry point to all of our subsequent course offerings. 240 students enrolled in our course. 34% of students participating were first-generation college students. 75% had very little to no experience in any web, mobile or application development. 96% Agreed or Strongly Agreed This course has given me more insight into the tech industry and increased my interest/confidence in pursuing a career in tech. Longer-term we expect to see increases in the graduation rate of CS students coming from underrepresented backgrounds. In 2019 we plan to run this course again and continue to optimize and increase program quality.
