(www.facebook.com/The-Women-of-Color-In-Leadership-Movement-393493711027376)

The Women of Color In Leadership Movement (WCLM), was founded in 2015 and became sponsored by Media Island in 2016, within that short time we were able to accomplish much of our goals for the year that helped us build our foundational roots. We have been able to have monthly support group meetings, and support one another with shared resources, ideas, fundraising, training and organizing. WCLM has participated in various cultural events that support our communities, such as our local activists and their events. Our newly developed partnerships connects with both local and international organizations that focus on women of color and their empowerment and leadership. We have participated in workshops, cultural festivals, trainings and workshops, and have been able to send some of our members to these events. We have been able to support our members in leading their own workshops and presentations as well as supported them in their cultural artistic efforts. We have also been able to offer some support to students of the Evergreen State College, who were affected by the current racial tensions on campus, and in the community of Olympia. Our future goal is to bring more guest speakers such as bell hooks, Tim Wise, spokesperson and activist on racial issues, as well as women from our local Native tribes. These speakers would be able to address many of the issues around race, class, and gender, as well as the effects of colonization on Black and Brown peoples. We also hope to send group of the women to conferences and workshops statewide and to able to make international connections as well to help foster their resiliency tools. The funds the WCLM received from Media Island breakdown as follows:

$20,366 - $12,800 Travel; $2,750 local support training grants; $2,200 supplies; $2,050 program, & $566 misc.

Mr. Manning has undertaken a 3 year project to continue his scholarly work on up to 3 manuscripts or a book chronicling the history and culture of his people and the region as well as an autobiography.

Mr. Manning is retired and with his wife semi-retired. Beyond their direct hours researching and writing, the grant afforded them the ability to maintain their household, cover transportation, and the purchase a writer's laptop computer, software & accessories. 4 $9,000 PRISON RADIO (www.prisonradio.org)

Prison Radio's mission is to air the voices of prisoners, and in doing so, to reveal the humanity within the walls, combining investigative reporting with a large-scale public education campaign. They challenge the mainstream media to tell the truth—and the whole truth—about this nation's reliance on imprisonment for social control.

Prison Radio (PR) was founded on the principle that a valid national dialogue about our modern prison system must centrally include the voices of prisoners. PR was launched in 1990 with the mission of recording and distributing the voices of those most impacted by America's (in)justice system. As the United States continues to practice imprisonment in a way never before seen in the history of the world and on a scale that surpasses any other nation, PR combats this reality by opening the airwaves to prisoners to share their testimony and connect with social movements for justice. PR built and maintains a website where audio recordings of prisoners are available for listening and download for radio stations worldwide, serving hundreds of stations and thousands of people around the world.

While PR organizes an international campaign to support American political prisoner Mumia Abu-Jamal, supporting his and all prisoners' legal rights, right to decent health care, and the right to have their voices heard, their program's work is evolving in concert with dramatic new legal developments. Meanwhile, PR is at the center of a legal battle for Mumia Abu-Jamal's right to appeal his original case. The implications of his case will reverberate throughout the state of Pennsylvania as well as the rest of the country. PR is also developing the voices of prison correspondents who are typically underrepresented in our media—including LGBTQ prisoners, women, and immigrants in ICE detention centers.

In 2018, with the help of this grant, PR worked to successfully publish another of Mumia Abu-Jamal's books, America's Favorite Pastime, which came out in April 2019. $9,000 Financial Breakdown: $2,800 - Printing Thompson's bill for America's Favorite Pastime; $2,500 - (staff time) America's Favorite Pastime Publishing New Book Project; $1,500 - (Staff Research This Just In/In Their Own Words) Book Project in development; $1,300 - Travel Publishing Work; $900 - Six Months Phone, Internet, Utilities.

7 $3,115 RISING TIDE NORTH AMERICA (www.risingtidenorthamerica.org)

Rising Tide North America (RTNA) is a continental, all-volunteer, grassroots network of groups and individuals who organize locally, promote community-based solutions to the climate crisis and take direct action to confront the root causes of climate change. RTNA organizes through a decentralized network of local chapters that support one another with shared resources, ideas, fundraising, training and organizing. RTNA has participated in campaigns on fracking, tar sands pipelines, Arctic drilling and coal mining. This included supporting indigenous-led pipeline struggles in Minnesota and Louisiana, continuing to support indigenous activists with trainings and financial support. Rising Tide also sponsored a community organizing training in Pittsburgh.

Funds raised through grants to Rising Tide were used to maintain the organization's brand through communications and web identity and provide local groups with microgrants for travel, training and food. RTNA is geographically dispersed through North America and funds were also used to transport members to twice a year planning meetings. Of the $3,115 Rising Tide received from Media Island, the breakdown is as follows: $1000 for trainer travel to support frontline communities; $1000 for collective member travel; $1000 for supplies for frontline communities; $115 for web hosting services.

saw an increase in the activity to educate the Navajo population and governing bodies to transition away from reliance on the Navajo

Generating Station coal fired power plant, to shut it down once and for all, along with shutting down the Kayenta coal mine which has fueled it since it began operations in 1974. That was the same year as the Navajo-Hopi Relocation Act was passed by the US Congress. This genocidal act began the decades long forced relocation of thousands of traditional indigenous residents from their sacred ancestral homelands. The work of ICC and others has had a significant impact on the eventual decision to shutter the plant and mine, keeping it in the ground, as of decisions made by the Navajo Nation Tribal Council in May 2019.

2018 funds were spent on these areas: Travel/gas/food - $1,100; Outreach/Education - $900; Material supplies/fees - $350.

9 $1,860 MIDWEST TWO-SPIRIT, TRANS, WOMXN ACTION CAMP

Midwest Two-Spirit, Trans, Womxn Action Camp (TTWAC) is a collection of TTW identifying individuals who have been fighting the proposed Line 3 oil pipeline in so-called northern Minnesota. The campaign against this project has been multifaceted. Legal intervention is being attempted by 5 of the northern Ojibwe tribes, as well as NGOs such as Honor the Earth, Friends of the Headwaters & the Sierra Club.

Indigenous-led resistance on the ground has been spearheaded by Camp Makwa, a direct-action oriented frontline camp. Grassroots resistance in the Minneapolis/St. Paul area is being done by such groups as Line 3 Resistance Project, who organize trainings, reaching out to landowners, raising awareness along the route and gather information in preparation for permitting. Folks organizing TTWAC are or have been involved with these aspects of the campaign.

TTWAC focuses on uplifting indigenous voices, being fiercely anti-colonial & offering a space for two-spirit, trans and women-identified folks to come together relatively free of the influence and dominance of cis-gendered men. TTWAC hopes to strengthen relationships between participants for the continued fight against Line 3, equip folks with necessary skills to resist Line 3 as well as support/uplift each other, and create a long-term encampment where folks can challenge each other and push back against forms of oppression other than patriarchy.

In June & August, 2018, TTWAC held two different action camps. One focused on learning direct action skills, and the second focused more solely on climbing. Both were held on a piece of land along the proposed Line 3 route, a site chosen because its existence exercises treaty rights by occupying the land. The trainings provided strengthened the radical community by passing on skills that are not as readily available to two-spirit/trans/women folks.

$1,860 was spent as follows: May: $400 - kitchen equipment & tarps for action camp; May: $200 - banner & art material for action; August:

$600 - climbing gear & small stipends for climb trainers; October: $660 - to indigenous femmes as stipends for work fighting line 3.

Tikun Olam is a political blog dedicated to the Israeli national security state. It reports on news which is often either censored or under Israeli judicial gag order. Many of these stories report on wrongdoing by Israeli political or military officials or intelligence agencies which would embarrass them if reported. Often the stories may not be reported in Israeli media at all. Thus Tikun Olam serves as an important outlet both for Israeli and foreign media who are blocked from important stories. In some cases, Tikun Olam has also reported on secret intelligence collaborations between the NSA and Israeli military intelligence.

The blog also defends democratic values, free speech and free press, which are under constant attack in Israel. It offers discussion of ideas and values like BDS and Nakba, which are either criminalized or suppressed under Israel law.

Tikun Olam also makes use of social media accounts to promote these ideas and the visibility of the blog. Tikun Olam has large followings on both Twitter and Facebook. Because of this presence, these accounts are often under attack from forces seeking to promote Israeli policies of Occupation and apartheid. Israeli judges and the military censor have also ordered these social media platforms to censor a number of postings which supposedly violated Israeli law. This has the effect of expanding the jurisdiction of Israeli courts far beyond the shores of Israel, which is another restriction of free speech.

2018 funds were spent on online streaming, hosting and programming costs, and some additional equipment upgrades and maintenance.
