Form 990, Part III, Line 4a:

The Complete Streets campaign. CalBike worked to promote the policy that Caltrans should include bicycle and pedestrian safety improvements with every repaving and rehabilitation project. We created a coalition of more than 80 organizations to support this idea, and developed high quality materials to promote complete streets. Our review of the states $17.6 four year State Highway Operations and Protection Program resulted in an increase in the number of projects that include complete streets elements from 66 projects in the 2020 construction year to 363 projects in the 2023 construction year. At the local level we held webinars on how to integrate safety measures in street projects, and held one in-person workshop in San Bernardino.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4b:

Advocacy and Power-building for Better Biking and Healthier, More Equitable CommunitiesCalBike worked to make sure that transportation investments work to address historical inequities in public investments and was very successful. Thanks to our work to shape the guidelines of the Active Transportation Program that distributes $220 million per year, at least 80% of the funding went to communities identifies as disadvantaged communities. In June 2019, we gathered 30 mobility justice advocates in Sacramento for the first annual Mobility Justice Advocates Convening where leaders of grassroots transportation justice community organizations developed strategies to influence decision makers at the State Capitol. CalBike also worked to connect active transportation advocacy to the climate emergency by influencing the states report on Senate Bill 150. The 2018 Progress Report on Californias Sustainable Communities and Climate Protection Act was a landmark admission by the state that we are doing next to nothing to prevent a climate catastrophe in the transportation sector which accounts for nearly half of all greenhouse gas emissions. This report will be a huge benefit to our advocacy going forward.
