Form 990 (2018)

Form 990, Part III, Line 4a:

ABA ROLI implements legal technical assistance programs in roughly 50 countries in Africa, Asia and the Pacific, Europe and Eurasia, Latin America and the Middle East and North Africa. Over the course of a given year, ABA ROLI implements over 100 distinct programs, often more than one in a given country, most of which are concentrated in one of four program areas, Governance and Justice System Strengthening, Human Rights and Access to Justice, Transitions, Conflict Mitigation, and Peace building, and Inclusive and Sustainable Development. In Africa, ABA ROLI has been active promoting access to justice for survivors of sexual and gender-based violence, advancing human rights, notably by combatting hereditary slavery, strengthening the formal and customary justice sectors, and building the capacity of local civil society organizations to advocate for human rights and the rule of law. Form 990, Part III, Line 4b:

The Commission on Immigration Commission directs the American Bar Associations ABAs efforts to ensure fair treatment and full due process rights for immigrants and asylum seekers within the United States. The ABA has been actively involved in reviewing national immigration laws for several decades and has adopted over 60 policies addressing the substantive and procedural rights of immigrants and asylum seekers in the United States. The ABA has promoted legislation that comprehensively, realistically, and humanely addresses the undocumented population and the vital need for immigrant labor. The Commission is comprised of thirteen Commission Members and a ten member Advisory Committee, individuals who come from diverse backgrounds including private practice, non profit agencies, governmental agencies, law professors, judges and more. Form 990, Part III, Line 4c:

The ABA Center on Children and the Laws mission is to promote access to justice for children and families. Our staff of 15 legal and core professionals work on grant funded projects across the country that are unified by two complementary goals, to improve legal representation and to improve the legal systems that impact children and families lives. We achieve our mission and goals through a three tiered approach. First, the Center works in individual communities across the country where it partners with local stakeholders including courts, child welfare agencies, lawyers, tribes, schools, and legislators to build the capacity of legal practices and systems that serve children well and to help change those that do not. Second, informed by that local work and by our position within a 400,000 member professional association, the Center collaborates with other national organizations to provide influential guidance on legal programs and policy reforms that affect child and family well being on a national level. Part I Line 2	FJE reviews financial reports and samples transactions by asking subawardees to submit backup documentation for the selected transactions. This check is performed prior to making payments. Per Audit Requirements per 2CFR200 subpart F, FJE requests its subawardees who receive over 750K in a year from USG funding, to submit their audit reports. FJE makes sure that its subawardees do not have any major findings and adjusts its monitoring accordingly. Program staff perform on-site visits to evaluate subawardees' progress. These evaluations are sometimes conducted virtually as well. FJE has a termination clause as part of its subaward agreement in case of non-compliance or major issues with subawardees.

Part I Line 2	FJE reviews financial reports and samples transactions by asking subawardees to submit backup documentation for the selected transactions. This check is performed prior to making payments. Per Audit Requirements per 2CFR200 subpart F, FJE requests its subawardees who receive over 750K in a year from USG funding, to submit their audit reports. FJE makes sure that its subawardees do not have any major findings and adjusts its monitoring accordingly. Program staff perform on-site visits to evaluate subawardees progress. These evaluations are sometimes conducted virtually as well. FJE has termination clause as part of its subaward agreement in case of non-compliance or major issues with subawardees.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4c	Finally, the Center serves as a centralized resource for the childrens law field by building professional networks, convening meetings and conferences, developing practice standards, analyzing case law and legislation, and creating training materials for attorneys, judges and advocates throughout the country. Each of these project areas is funded externally through federal, state, and private philanthropic grants. We have a portfolio of 20-25 active grants at any given time, amounting to a total of about $3.5 million in domestic grant revenue per year. Some examples of the Centers work include Court Projects. The Center improves court systems serving children and families in the child welfare system by consulting with State Court Improvement Programs, collaborating with national judicial organizations, and working with state and local courts. The largest program within this project area is the Capacity Building Center for Courts-CBCC, which is a partnership of the ABA Center on Children and the Law, the National Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges, and the National Center for State Courts. The CBCC team seeks to improve child safety, permanency, and well-being outcomes for families by ensuring courts work in partnership with child welfare agencies to best serve children and families in all fifty states, Washington D.C., Puerto Rico, the U.S. Virgin Islands. Permanency Barriers. The ABA Permanency Barriers Project has one overarching goal to reduce unnecessary time children spend in foster care before achieving permanency. To date, the ABA Permanency Barriers Project has served 57 counties in four states and has successfully reduced the time children spend in foster care by an average of nine months, realizing a positive impact on more than 3,000 childrens cases, and saving counties and states more than $35 million in foster care costs. State courts and child welfare agencies fund this project. Education Projects. In collaboration with the Education Law Center and the Juvenile Law Center, the ABA formed the Legal Center for Foster Care and Education in 2007 to provide national advocacy on policy matters affecting the education of children in foster care. Staff from the ABA have led efforts in jurisdictions across the U.S. to convene child welfare agencies, local school district leadership and judges together to plan for and implement supports that allow children in foster care to maintain access to the same school despite changes in home placement. The Legal Centers work helped pass critical federal legislation in 2015 requiring state child welfare agencies and school systems to work together to keep children in foster care in the same school when home placements change. Since that law passed, we have been working closely with states across the country to implement the federal law. Kin and Relative Caregiver Projects. In partnership with the Childrens Defense Fund and Generations United, the Center manages several projects related to kinship care.
