Form 990 (2018)

Form 990, Part III, Line 4a:

Founded in 1970, the Native American Rights Fund (NARF) is the oldest and largest nonprofit law firm dedicated to asserting and defending the rights of Indian tribes, organizations and individuals nationwide. Known as the premiere Indian Legal Defense Fund in the country, NARF plays a critical role in defending tribal and individual rights, as well as functioning as a leading thought leader in federal, state, and tribal law and policy. With a reputation and credibility built from over fifty years of service to Indian country, NARF is a trusted consultant and ally to tribes, policy makers, environmental organizations, Native American civil rights practitioners, other Native American organizations, and Indian law practitioners. NARF's main agenda is to continue assisting tribes in constructing the foundations of law and policy that are necessary to empower them so that they may live according to their Native traditions and inherent sovereignty rights. This highlight report includes updates and accomplishments from casework, programming and activity in 2019 and into 2020. Activities Addressed Guided by five priorities, NARF has taken a lead role in supporting the preservation of tribal existence, the protection of tribal natural resources, the promotion of human rights, the accountability of governments to Native Americans, and the development of Indian law and educating the public about Indian rights, laws, and issues. NARF Highlights Stop President Trump's land grab at the Bears Ears National Monument by filing a suit on behalf of our tribal clients. Co-hosted the first and second nonpartisan Native American Presidential Forums with solid candidate participation. Received a successful decision in the government's motions to dismiss meaning that NARF's representation of the Rosebud Sioux Tribe and the Fort Belknap Indian Community in the evolving Keystone XL case will proceed. Successfully represented the Agua Caliente Band of Cahuilla Indians in their groundwater case. Brought suit against the current administration for removal of environmental protections for Bristol Bay, in order to protect the salmon population there. Successfully represent ground water adjudications across the western half of the United States on behalf of tribes. Track cases of interest to Native Nations at the United States Supreme Court. Work to improve the win/loss record at the United States Supreme Court. Successfully represent tribal clients in challenging restrictive North Dakota voting ID laws that led to settlement and the State agreeing to address the difficulties of Native voters. Successful results and the affirmation of treaty rights in an off-reservation hunting case that appeared before the U.S. Supreme Court, Herrera v. Wyoming. NARF represented the Crow Tribe as amicus curiae. Continue to protect Indian Country's greatest resource, our children- through the representation of 486 tribes and 59 Native organizations in an amicus brief to the Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals defending the constitutionality of the Indian Child Welfare Act being argued in the Brackeen v. Bernhardt case. Additionally, continue to lead and develop solutions to voting rights problems in Indian country through our Native American Voting Rights Coalition and a successful result in the Arizona voting rights case in the 9th circuit which declared the AZ voting restriction was discriminatory. After 32 years of representing the tribe, the Little Shell Tribe of Chippewa Indians obtained Federal recognition. Redouble efforts to protect sacred sites on behalf of Native peoples through NARF's Sacred Places Project. Secure healing and reconciliation among Native American individuals, families, communities and tribes victimized by a century of documented boarding school human rights violations. Continuing the litigation against oil and gas leasing in The Arctic National Wildlife Refuge in order to protect the Porcupine Caribou herd and the Gwich'in Nations that depend on the herd. Promote and support Native communities in restoring sustainable, traditional dispute resolution practices through the Indigenous Peacemaking Project. Work for international recognition of indigenous rights and the impact of climate change on indigenous communities and territories. Expand public education and outreach to tribes and the public. Project Activities NARF works to enforce tribal treaty rights, to insure independence on reservations, and to protect tribal sovereignty, assist tribes in providing for an adequate land base and control over natural resources that are central components of economic self-sufficiency and self-determination. These issues are vital to the very existence of tribes. NARF enforces and strengthens laws which are designed to protect the rights of Indigenous Peoples to practice their traditional religion, to use their own language, enjoy their culture, and ensure the welfare of their children - nationally and internationally. NARF enforces the inherent duty for all levels of government to recognize and responsibly enforce the many laws and regulations applicable to Indian peoples and the trust duties to which those give rise, and our work establishes favorable court precedents for Indian Country. NARF distributes information and law materials, encourages and fosters Indian legal education, and forms alliances with Indian law practitioners, and Indian and non-native organizations to advance our work. Ongoing threats to human rights, the environment, race relations and the promotion of corporate interests over Native nations ensures the critical need for the legal, policy, and programming work of NARF. Bears Ears National Monument History and Current Litigation -In 2015, five Tribes - the Hopi, Ute Tribe, Ute Mountain Ute, Navajo Nation, and Pueblo of Zuni came together to advocate for the protection of Bears Ears because of its deep cultural importance to all of the Tribes. The five tribes led the effort to establish the Bears Ears National Monument, an area still frequently used for cultural and religious purposes by the tribes. Increased looting of the estimated 100,000 plus structures, sites, and objects within every reach of the monument dictated the need for protections in the form of a monument designation. On December 28, 2016, after the better part of a decade of activism, President Obama proclaimed 1.35 million acres as the Bears Ears National Monument pursuant to his authority under the Antiquities Act. The proclamation also included a management plan that empowered tribal leaders to provide guidance and recommendations on care of their ancestral lands, through this strategy, the Bears Ears Commission was created. The designation was the culmination of local activism, coordinated outreach, and collaborative land-use management. On April 26, 2017, President Trump attacked this important designation. Trump signed an executive order directing Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke to conduct a review of the Bears Ears National Monument to determine if it was created without "public outreach and proper coordination." However, the suggestion that the monument's designation lacked outreach and coordination was disingenuous. The Bears Ears National Monument was created after years of advocacy and many public meetings in the region and in Washington, DC. The effort to protect Bears Ears was very long, very public, and very robust. In March of 2017, the Hopi Tribe, Pueblo of Zuni, and the Ute Mountain Ute Tribe officially retained NARF as their legal counsel to defend the Bears Ears National Monument. On August 24, 2017, Zinke submitted to the White House recommendations to shrink several monuments, including Bears Ears. Despite Zinke's claim to be giving the people their voice back, his recommendation to shrink the monuments ignored an outpouring of public support for Bears Ears and other monuments. More than 95% of comments received by the Department of the Interior supported keeping the national monuments, including 65% of comments from Utah residents. It did not matter. The only voices that were heard were those calling for increased development, increased exploitation, and reduced protections for a national treasure. On December 4, 2017, President Trump signed a proclamation slashing the Bears Ears designation by 85%. In response to President Trump's action, the Native American Rights Fund (NARF), representing the Hopi Tribe, Pueblo of Zuni, and Ute Mountain Ute Tribe filed a lawsuit in conjunction with the Navajo Nation and the Ute Tribe to protect Bears Ears against this unlawful land grab. In two separate lawsuits on the issue, Utah Dine Bikeyah, Conservation Lands Foundation Inc., Society of Vertebrate Paleontology, Patagonia Works, Friends of Cedar Mesa, National Trust for Historic Preservation, Archaeology Southwest, The Access Fund, National Resources Defense Council, National Parks Conservation Association, The Wilderness Society

Form 990, Part III, Line 4b:

The National Indian Law Library (NILL) is the only law library in the United States devoted to American Indian law. The library serves both NARF and members of the public. Since it was started as a NARF project in 1972, NILL has collected over 18,000 bibliographic resources that relate to federal Indian and tribal law. The Library's holdings include the largest collection of tribal codes, ordinances and constitutions available, legal pleadings from major Indian cases, and often hard to find reports and historical legal information. In addition to making its catalog and extensive collection available to the public, NILL provides free weekly Indian law updates via email to over 7,000 subscribers and answers more than 100 research questions from the public each month. The Library also created and maintains a huge website that provides access to thousands of full-text sources to help the researcher. Most importantly, NILL supports the research needs of NARF so that it can make the best arguments and provide the best representation to its clients. The Access to Tribal Law Project (ATLP) continues to be an invaluable resource for researchers and practitioners in tribal law. In 2019 fiscal year, NILL employees and volunteers updated many of the tribal law research pages for each of the 573 federally recognized tribes, providing access to hard to find tribal law. The Library has established good relationships with a number of tribes who regularly send updates to their laws as changes are made and is working to develop relationships with others who have expressed interest. In 2019, the NILL website recorded 266,000 users and 349,000 sessions which is up from 218,000 users and 322,000 sessions in 2018. This is an average of 23,000 visitors per month with a high of 28,000 in October of 2019. The most popular NILL web pages in 2019 are as follows: Tracing Native American Family Roots, Native American Tribal Enrollment, Tribal Law Gateway home page, ICWA Guide Online, Who has rights?, Indian Law Bulletins, Current news.
