Form 990, Part III, Line 4a:

Advancing Rights of Women (MILPA) is a project in which women exercise their rights at home and in their communities and prevent and reduce violence against women. 14 groups of women leaders learn to support women who suffer violence and mediate family conflicts. 86 promoters teach women in 80 communities to exercise their rights, participate fully in decision making, and live without violence. By making women more visible, more represented in leadership positions and more connected to one another, this project strengthens their collective voice and positions them to advocate against violence and build a culture of respect for human rights.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4b:

Growing Food & Building Economies is a project that works with 100 families from 8 communities to produce foods to feed themselves and earn money to improve wellbeing. By applying ecological practices on their family farms, they grow diverse crops to eat and sell. They organize small savings cooperatives, sell their products at local markets and manage their earnings to pay for things like school fees and medicine. By strengthening the food and production system, this project brings families closer to food sovereignty using their own resources such as land and natural resources.

Strengthening Language & Culture is the project that supports the Ach'Lequilc'op Indigenous Community Radio Project to increase access to trustworthy information on relevant topics and educational programs in the Tselal language for a listening audience of 40,000 people, through 24-hour broadcasting. As part of the project, 40 new radio volunteers from the communities are being trained in the use of equipment and communications techniques. These new radio volunteers, who are primarily Tselal youth, will work with the staff of the radio to make 65 visits to communities to gather local news, testimonies about traditions and legends, and produce broadcasts about women's rights, ecological farming, indigenous governance, child nutrition and family health.
