Each year, SCEEE solicits proposals from, and accepts, from its participating colleges and universities. Each competing proposal is submitted by a faculty member with less than five years of university faculty experience; the proposed scholarly research limited to a fixed dollar amount with the participating college/university budgeting cost sharing of at least 100% of the grant amount (to increase the research output). Each proposal is first evaluated by the participating college/university and then by a team of SCEEE members/directors. Winning proposals are then funded by SCEEE initially at 80% with the final 20% paid upon completion of the research and a complete final report submission, costs are itemized by the participating college/university, via its sponsored research office, and billed to SCEEE for the final 20% payment on the grant.
