The Suder Foundation dramatically improves the graduation rates of first-generation college students and prepares each scholar for a life with self-awareness, success, and significance. Our goals are to transform lives and impact the culture of higher education to advance first-generation student success.	$ 244,040.
The First Scholars Program, a holistic four-year student success program currently operating at a network of four-year public university partners, provides direct support and services as a living laboratory to develop, implement, and prove the effectiveness of support strategies for first-generation students.
The program serves as a catalyst for creating campus-wide awareness and systemic efforts to intentionally embrace first-generation students as a key demographic in raising universities' retention and graduation rates. Through convening and working groups, we facilitate a network of collaborators to gather, share knowledge, and influence institutional change on their respective campuses.
Leveraging this success, we co-founded with NASPA (Student Affairs Administrators in Higher Education) the Center for First-Generation Student Success. The Center is intended to become the premiere source
