Part X, Line 2:	BayLegal is exempt from taxation under Internal Revenue Code Section 501(c)(3) and California Revenue and Taxation Code Section 23701d. Generally accepted accounting principles provide accounting and disclosure guidance about positions taken by an organization in its tax returns that might be uncertain. Management has considered its tax positions and believes that all of the positions taken by BayLegal in their federal and state exempt organizations on tax returns are more likely than not to be sustained upon examination. BayLegal's returns are subject to examination by federal and state taxing authorities, generally for three and four years, respectively, after they are filed.

990 Schedule O, Supplemental Information

Return Reference	Explanation
Form 990, Part III, Line 1, Description of Organization Mission:	Bay Area Legal Aid (BayLegal) services impact clients in significant ways, including preventing homelessness, establishing safety and protection from abuse for domestic violence victims and their children, securing vital healthcare services to treat physical and mental health conditions, and securing income or alleviating predatory debt to help individuals and families living in poverty to provide for food, rent, and other life necessities. Often, BayLegal is able to resolve multiple interconnected issues for families to improve their overall self-sufficiency and quality of life. BayLegal impacts the community through extensive outreach and education, technical assistance provided to other community and governmental agencies, systemic advocacy and impact litigation. The following client story provides a brief example of how BayLegal's services change lives: Johnnie B. moved in with his sister after falling seriously ill, but his housing situation remained unstable, and he cycled in and out of homelessness. A referral from a Contra Costa County social worker connected him with the Reentry Success Center, where he received counseling, transportation assistance, and connections to medical care and legal assistance with an introduction to BayLegal. Johnnie's BayLegal attorney learned that he had been denied a spot for subsidized housing at a public housing complex because he had bad credit. In examining his credit history, the attorney learned that he had been targeted by a predatory lender, and that his credit issues were intrinsically tied to his disability. The attorney advocated that the housing complex waive their credit policy as a reasonable accommodation under the Fair Housing Act, which prohibits discrimination against protected classes, including people with disabilities. Representatives of the housing complex agreed and within a week approved Johnnie for an apartment. Further, Johnnie's BayLegal attorney coordinated donations to help furnish his new apartment. Johnnie took a moment to reflect on others who are unhoused or at risk of homelessness. "Everybody deserves a second chance," he said. "That's why the homeless population is what it is right now. No one wants to give you a second chance. People don't think people change, but they do. I know I have." BayLegal also balances direct individual services with systemic work to address root causes of issues harming low-income residents and extend our impact at a scale far beyond the tens of thousands of individual clients and family members we serve directly each year. By working directly with clients, BayLegal develops expert knowledge of the problems that cause poor people harm and impede their struggle for self-sufficiency. Systemic work, informed by our work with clients, includes impact litigation, legislative and administrative advocacy, and training, technical assistance and policy development for agencies that administer housing, healthcare and benefits programs for the Bay Area's low

Form 990, Part III, Line 1, Description of Organization Mission:	w income residents. The following case provides an example of how BayLegal's systemic work has widespread impact: Anderson vs. City of San Jose: This case was brought in 2016 to challenge San Jose's adoption of a policy that conflicts with the Surplus Land Act and enforce legal protections for the development of affordable housing. Bay Area Legal Aid, along with co-counsel from the Public Interest Law Project and Public Advocates, argued that charter cities like San Jose are not exempt from the state Surplus Land Act. This legislation requires local governments to prioritize affordable housing uses when disposing of surplus government land. In November 2019, California's Sixth Appellate District Court of Appeal affirmed that charter cities must comply with state law. The ruling will affect all 121 charter cities in California-among them the state's largest cities including Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco, and Oakland. BayLegal also works in collaboration with public systems to remove barriers to healthcare and benefits access, and design systems, change regulations and procedures to better meet client needs. Please see below for two examples of this work in 2019. In partnership with Tipping Point Community, City and County of San Francisco Human Services Agency, and Positive Resources, Bay Area Legal Aid served over 100 clients through the San Francisco SSI Advocacy Project. The model for the project is rooted in an understanding that nearly two thirds of chronically homeless people report having a psychiatric or emotional health condition, while 40% report having a physical disability. Large numbers of chronically homeless people are thus likely to meet the qualifications for Supplemental Security Income (SSI), but because they are unhoused, they face barriers to enrollment. These barriers are intensified by the application process itself; nationwide, most first-time SSI applications are rejected. When aided by a knowledgeable attorney in the appeals process, however, over 50% of applications are approved, a testament to the complexity of navigating the system and to the essential role of an expert advocate in helping eligible applicants access benefits. The SSI Advocacy Project pairs attorneys with experience in SSI with homeless service offices, intake centers, and street outreach teams, and attorneys attend public health fairs, to reach clients who are otherwise often hard to reach, ultimately providing income stability to help people transition out of homelessness. BayLegal and other community partners collaborated with San Francisco's Financial Justice Project to reform the City and County of San Francisco's fines and fees system. As a result, the San Francisco Traffic Court agreed not to collect $92 million in debts owed to the court; these debts are disproportionately held by low-income people. The Court also agreed to work with the California Department of Motor Vehicles to lift holds on driver's licenses of 88,000 defendants who f

Whether directly engaged in alleviating the costs of poverty and returning financial assets to low-income families and communities, or addressi ng conditions of safety and security that in turn make participation in safety net program s, work, and economic activity more accessible to survivors of interpersonal violence, Bay Legal's services ultimately work to interrupt the legal inequities that can underlie and r einforce long-term cycles of poverty. Recent studies have confirmed that investing in lega l services is a cost effective means of solving issues faced by low-income people, and our own data confirms that every dollar invested in our annual budget has produced between $1 .75 and $2.50 in economic benefits to low-income families in each of the past three years. While BayLegal continues to strategically develop our program to ensure it is responsive to the ongoing and emerging needs of the diverse populations it serves, the receipt of fle xible funding is increasingly important to ensure high quality services to low-income peop le and communities, ensuring fairness for all in the justice system.
