Return Reference	Explanation
Part I, Line 1a	The President is required to reside in on campus housing owned by the University. This is treated as a nontaxable benefit to the President. Membership to a social club is provided to the President to cultivate and build donor relationships. This is treated as a nontaxable benefit to the President. The board of trustees expect the President and his wife to represent the University together, and her presence protects the President from allegations of unethical and unscriptural behavior. As a result, the board gladly pays for the President's wife to travel with him.
Part I, Line 4a	Tommy Pryor received a change of control payment of $106,050 from the organization.
