Form 990, Part III, Line 4a:

Missionaries and staff serve in a number of developing countries where the possibilities of training are limited. The Organization provides theological training, teaching skills, resource materials, mentorship, and encouragement to indigenous pastors and lay leaders, with a continual focus on evangelism and discipleship. Representatives of the Organization travel to numerous countries and remote locations where they work with national church leaders to accomplish the goal of planting churches, primarily in towns and villages where there is currently no evangelical witness. The Organization also partners with national churches that have a vision to plant additional churches.(Continued on Schedule O)Representatives of the Organization also provide continual biblical training, equipping church leaders with practical, effective skills in evangelism, discipleship, and church planting. Teaching in a small group setting encourages open discussions, spiritual growth, and exhortation. Ministries work through the local church leaders to help meet the material, spiritual, and personal health needs of their communities by: empowering leadership; teaching biblical principles of leadership and business ethics; helping to develop small business that support themselves, their local churches and their ministry outreach; helping to develop small neighborhood medical clinics, and teaching hygiene and HIV/AIDs awareness; providing hands-on training of employable skills such as farming, tailoring, construction, and more; and assisting with planting local churches and community Christian schools. The Organization's missionary staff serve children in developing countries. Many children are homeless and orphaned with no one to care for their health, spiritual, educational, or basic needs such as food and shelter. The Organization's missionary staff demonstrate Christ's love by providing a biblically-based education, as well as offering hugs, a warm meal, and a safe place to play.
