Also complete this part for any additional information. (See instructions.)

While the organization may not meet the 33 1/3% threshold, it is very close at 25%. That number is arguably skewed because one company gives a sizeable donation to the foundation each year. This 25% number is significantly more than the minimum 10% required under 26 CFR section 1.170A-9(f)(3)(i).

In addition, the foundation is supported by donations from numerous individuals in several states, in addition to the large donation each year from the company. The foundation conducted solicitation campaigns during 2020 from individuals. While its fundraising events were limited in 2020 due to Covid, it was able to conduct an awards evening and silent auction fundraising event that also raised funds from the general public. Thus, the foundation met the requirements of 26 CFR section 1.170A-9(f)(3)(ii) that it be organized and operated to attract public support on a continual basis.

With regard to other facts and circumstances, it should be noted again that the 25% public support is significantly more than the 10% minimum threshold. The foundation receives donations from numerous individuals each year, in addition to the large corporate donation. The foundation's board of directors is not appointed by any large donor, but is instead self-perpetuating. Those board members must be determined to be qualified as individuals who seek to perpetuate the Christian principles on which the foundation was founded.

Moreover, the foundation's use of the funds donated demonstrates its commitment to helping those in need in the community at large and not for benefiting any large donors. In 2020, its funds were used to assist the education of low income children, provide support to those trying to lift themselves out of poverty, providing food to the homeless and those in poverty, and providing assistance to foster children and their families.

Part I, Question 19

Note that the Form 990-EZ for tax year 2019 has an inadvertent error on Part II, Question 27(B), which is the "Net assets or fund balance" for the "End of year ". The amount for the beginning of the year balance was mistakenly duplicated in the end of year amount. By looking at the form it is obvious that it is an error since the cash, savings, and investments total $78,544 and there are no additional adjustments. The 2019 end of year balance should be listed as $78,544, which is the correct amount and the amount that we are providing on this form for the 2020 beginning of year balance
